

Description

Please note before use, please complete other courses in the tutorial before viewing this course.

Products can be used in different ways. This course is mainly to provide ideas for other control methods for products. When you are interested in this control method you can try to extend the control method.

This part of the tutorial is mainly used as a reference for users who want to use different control methods. Users can also extend the program on a basic basis. This tutorial only provides the most basic control methods.

If you are interested in Processing, you can check out the following links:

Processing official website: <https://processing.org/>

Introduction to basic functions of Processing: <https://processing.org/reference>

Processing video tutorials: <https://processing.org/tutorials>